Professor Hersh Shefrin
(Leavey School of Business, Santa Clara University, USA)

Date: January 13-15, 2014
Venue: Tinbergen Institute Amsterdam

Psychology Across the Financial Landscape

Hersh Shefrin holds the Mario Belotti Chair in the Department of Finance at Santa Clara University’s Leavey School of Business. Professor Shefrin is a pioneer of behavioral finance.

The Tinbergen Institute Lectures are an annual series of advanced PhD-level courses on topics that appeal to many of Tinbergen Institute’s students and fellows.

Professor Hersh Shefrin will discuss how a particular set of psychological concepts impact judgments and decisions across the financial landscape. The landscape includes financial professionals such as portfolio managers and security analysts, corporate managers, central bankers, as well as ordinary consumers and investors.

Topics of special attention will be the implications of psychological pitfalls for market efficiency and financial stability, in the context of the global financial crisis.

Registration closes December 1, 2013

Qualified external students are explicitly invited to participate.
